IGNACIO CASTILLO

Ignacio Castillo came to the United States from the Dominican Republic at the age of 19. After completing his formal education, he entered the construction industry and later transferred to Stuyvesant College where he received a degree in business administration and accounting. He practiced accounting and then opened a travel agency. In 1972 he started investing in real estate with the acquisition of a single-family residential property in more than one thousand residential and commercial units. Many of the units have been renovated and rezoned with financing provided by New York City agencies. He is grateful to the City of New York for providing time with an education and helping him to build his business.
